discase.
The debate on Stevens' bill was resumed.
Mr. Shankin opposed the till as more danger-ous to civil rights than any measure ever pre-sented. It was an enormous outrage on the people.

Mr. Thayer supported the bill. When enforced, it' would be followed by terms of reconstruction, which would recorgize the perfect equal rights of all clitaens and secure uniform liberty, happiness and property throughout the country. Mr. Harding approved the sendments of the bill. He represented a constituency which were determined at any cost to protect citizens of the United States against lawiessness and crime, which was the main object of the bill.

Mr. Shellaberger explained his reasons for to make any interference to the rights of the President. This measure, however, standing alone, could not receive his support, if it were not to be followed by measures to establish civil governments based on loyal suffage. He would not vote for a military measure of the kind.

Mr. Hotchkies advocated placing the Southern States under military control, but thought the law sufficiently covered that matter, if the President had not, by his construction of the law, defeated it.

Measure, irlawold and Raymond made strong mr. Thayer supported the bill. When enforced,

No criminal confirmation from Culver. Penn & Co.? No criminal confirmation from Culver. Austin furnishes all the evidence in the Epbert case himself. The counsel said it was a crime to fall. Sir Morton Peto, who furnished lines of life, energy and internal minon and power from the seaboard to the Mississippi, and who failed the case he had too many bonds, was he a thief? Is it norime that Culver is poor? His offences were mere want of judgments. They were not crimes. matter that Austin is poor, that a mountain of debt is upon litm! Let me show you another thing. In 1863, and in the winter of 1864-5, until the great flood, which I think was in March, 1865, this country was filled with paper money. It was decreasing in value, it was being secretly but certainly inflated, in order to supply the interests, as I said before, of the Government.—The very mousent that state of things was reached, investments were made all over the country by good men, responsible men, strewd business uses, and men who were not so shrewd, either from the want of experience or understanding. The very mouent these things began to adjust themselves to the basis of peace, calamity became common. Failures were taking place all over the country. They are taking place every day now. The reduction in values of every kind has affected thousands of men to utter ruin, and no man ever failed in the world who did not inflict injury upon some one. If he failed, he indiet injury upon some londing the cause he owed somebody, and that person owed somebody else, on whom it had the same influence spreading likelf until it loses likelf in the affaits of the whole country, and is lost in a short time. To recover from these evils wise men go to work instead of getting up prosecutions. Now, gouttemen, what have they done by locking up Culver, by multiplying these prosecutions needlessly? Why, they have interfered with him from husbanding his assets, and adjusting his affairs to an ultimate payment of his debts. Give him liberty! Give him his business! Let him repair his losses as those men could repair them. Why his losses as those men could repair them. erry: Give nim ms Dusiness: Let him repair his losses as those men could repair them. Why, sir, old Nicholas Biddle, the great clumpion of the monled interests of this country—didn't he at one time fail? Nicholas Biddle, the President of the United States National Bank—didn't he fail? Did they indict than for compiney? he fail? Did they indict than for compiney? he have been indicated. If methes said to the set would have them indicated. If methes said to the set well have

MAY IT PLEASE THE COURT AND GENTLEMEN OF THE JUNY: This indictment is preferred under the criminal code which makes a conspiracy to delivand punishable by a fine and imprisonment. We have no evidence in this case of a positive character; it is all circumstantial; circum have explained the whole transaction in some mysterious way, turnou we missing, and it was not in our power at that late hour to secure it from the witness by process of count; so with the certificate given to Rynd; by some strange mischance which lies only in the breast of the prosecution, that paper was withrield from us. I was never aware before that a person's good character was not of weight and value to the accused. Is it crime to fair? Who then will make cated. Is it crime to fair? Who then will make investments? I tell you the addeet heart in Franklin was not that of a widow or an orphan. But then of Charles Version Crime in the doc est and amusement to all who participated and under the management of Mr. A. O. Farnham, b scens endowed with a versatility of tolent enabing him to be "all things to all men," overlook all parti of the house at once, attend to all parts of the business as necessity requires, consequently has extorted from a host of friends, the expression, "He can keep n botel f"
